The Ministry camp has always known a good electronica party when it sees it and despite recent cut-backs in New York, this London based label turns out some of the most celebrated party discs the genre has seen. Although we've seen recent duds like (80s Pulse), discs like Tech Pop show the party's not over until the 300 pound drag queen in six-inch glow-in-the-dark stilettos has sung. With Club Nation America 2, the label compiles some of the best party tracks this side of the Atlantic has seen in the last year. More background music than musical masterpiece (don't look for anything more than something to shake your thang to), the mix of DJs and popular hits like Mary J. Blige's "No More Drama (Thunderpass Club Anthem Mix)" and Daniel Bedingfield's "Gotta Get Thru This", hit the spot when the drugs are about to kick in (or the keg's about empty) and you're scrambling for the next disc. — Marek
